sponsible.
"There fore, having reached this determination with the greatest consideration, the Government of the United States will take such measures as are expedient to bring to account those who are personally responsible for what may occur."

The State Department is disposed to ignore Carranza's protestations that Obregon has not deliberately sought to incite the populace of the Mexican capital against foreigners. What the United States will insist upon, and in this it is backed by the British government, is that Carranza shall not tie up the railroad between Vera Cruz and Mexico City in such way as to cut off food from the capital and the means of escape for those foreigners degiring to leave.

The department has been advised that Obregon is still in Mexico City. Convinced that Carranza will comply with American demands, no more ships are to Carranza points to his note addressed to diplomats offering them protection in any place controlled by constitutionalists, and adds that he will protect all foreigners wherever possible. The first chief declares he is pleased with the repetition of the request that Americans leave dangerous parts of the country, thus avoiding all danger of friction which would disturb his friendly relations with the United States.

Obregon had longing to the Osage Indians in Oklahoma will be received by Secretary of the Interior Lane on March 2. This was announced at the conclusion this afternoon of a three-day hearing in the office of the Secretary of the Interior of the various oil interests concerned in Definite proposals for the leasing of consumption.

It was asserted that Obregon had placed 300 railroad cars at the disposal of the chamber of commerce to bring in supplies.

Carranza declared the accounts of Mexico City conditions which reach this country are from former Huertista sources, and are consequently hostile to himself. He maintained Obregon has kept perfect order in the capital, contrasting it with the disorders which prevailed, he said, under the Villistas. described as cold, calculating husiness men who had filled the record with "bunk." They are shacked to the interests, and were sent here for a purpose,

Secretary Lane checked him with a gesture, and remonstrated at the statement, as applied to himself and the others. "These men," said the Secretary, "These men," said the Secretary, "have come here in the open. Each of them has said who he is and frankly who he represents. Each has laid his hand upon the table. I ave given you opportunity to say whom you represent. You have not done so. Do you think that, under the circumstances, you are instituted in charging ulterfor motives." justified in charging ulterior motives."

Mr. Marchand declared that he w there as an American citizen, and asked for scaled bids and the awarding of the lease or leases to the highest bidder, it.

David J. Kelly declared that many of the present lessors, the small independent producers, were deservers of the utmost consideration in renewal, as many of them were not making a living. He recited conditions in the bil fields, the falling off in production, demand, and, consequently, price, and said that many men were not represented at the hearing because they were not making enough to feed themselves.

William Dial, woh described himself as a member of the Osage nation, having married an Osage wife and reared a family, asked opportunity to bid for a lease on the entire oil area, to develop and work it to the best interests of the Osages and the people in general. He said that the present lessors had retarded agriculture, and was closely questioned by Secretary Lane on this score.

Their guests enjoyed a diverting program arranged by Chairman Richard L. Edwards. Dancing was a popular feature of the program, and the Marine Band furnished music until midnight, when a supper was served.

In charge of the enjoyable function was a committee comprising Mr. Edwards, chairman; Arthur S. Morgan, E. J. McGolrick, A. M. Berthiaume, Joseph Brosnahan, Fred Booth, G. S. Gaver, J. L. Wedge, O. It was suggested today that the committee should have been named by Speaker Clark before the end of the Sixty-third Congress and that, tech-nically speaking, Mr. Clark ceased to be Speaker on March 4 and his ap-pointments announced on March 7 did mitted that it would be fair, if in such be Speaker on March 4 and his apbidding the present leaseholders were given preference on an equal bid. He did not disclose whom he represented. It was at this stage that Secretary Lane said that the hearing would be adjourned to Monday week, when all inmittee, says this suggestion is exvestigating resolution.

Congressman Rainey, who will be ranking House Democrat on the committee, says this suggestion is exceedingly far-fetched and is not worrying either the Speaker, the House or the committee members.

A contention that the appointment has a flaw in it is regarded as a hair-splitting one by legislators and it is doubted that the point will be seridoubted that the point will be seriously raised at any time.

Members of the joint committee are taking things easy awaiting the preliminary meeting next Monday, when Senator Chilton will return to Washington and take the lead in assembling his fellow-investigators. The preliminary meeting probably will be attended by all members of the joint committee except Congressman Gard of Ohio, who has an engagement in that State next week.
